Dear Sarah Pennington,

It is my pleasure to inform you that your proposal entitled, Analysis of Standardized Writing Tests: Does Complexity Matter? has been accepted for the Literacy Research Association's 64th Annual Conference, which will be held December 3-6, 2014 at the Marco Island Marriott in Marco Island, FL.

Your presentation has been scheduled and the time/date/place will be viewable on the schedule grid on the All Academic Submission site. Login to http://convention2.allacademic.com/one/lra/lra14/ You will also find the reviews of your proposal on that site. Hopefully these comments will prove helpful as you prepare your paper for the conference. Please remember to log-into the All Academic Site and not the LRA Webpage - you will avoid the confusion of the separate passwords. If you forgot your password for the All Academic site, you are able to click onto a reminder link.

Since you are listed as the contact person, please share this information with all other authors associated with this proposal.

Presenter Responsibilities for the 64th Annual LRA Conference:
• You will need to register for the conference. You may register online at the conference registration site - this link will be provided to you within the next week.
* It is expected that you will upload and share a full academic paper at the conference. As the conference draws closer, we will provide you with the information related to uploading your proposal to the website.
• If you will be presenting either a paper session or a paper that is part of a symposium, it is expected that you provide a copy of your full paper to the discussant in your session at least 2 weeks prior to the conference (by November, 19, 2014).

You may use the conference website (again, link will be provided within a week) to locate information regarding the conference hotel, airport, and ground transportation. LRA's rate at the Marco Island Marriott is $149/night. You may make hotel reservations directly at:
